Hiring Team, Blacksmith Agency

At Pixis I ran an 8-client PPC and SEO portfolio across multifamily, D2C and technical verticals, $15K to $90K in media spend per client each month on Google Ads, Meta, LinkedIn, Amazon Ads and Criteo. I hired and managed the 8-person team behind it, carried the P&L, and cut client churn 50% by diagnosing which accounts were slipping and fixing the right lever fast. That is the same client-performance ownership this Growth Marketing Manager seat is built around.

Blacksmith's job description asks for someone who audits paid and organic together, not one after the other. At Plug Power I led Paid Search and Paid Social across Google Ads, Microsoft Ads, Meta and LinkedIn to a 25% drop in CPA, while closing keyword-strategy gaps that pushed organic visibility up 35% in the same quarter. I also automated the WordPress-to-Pardot lead flow, which cut cost per lead in half, so I know what a QA pass on a messy handoff actually looks like.

The sales-call piece is familiar too. At Sensata I built the sales enablement decks and competitor teardowns that a 50-person rep team used to close, and win rates rose 30%. At Applied Materials I now run that same discipline on forecasting, using AI agents built on Claude to take the repetitive pulls off my plate so the hours go into the client-facing recommendation instead of a spreadsheet.

I would bring that combined paid, SEO and client-strategy track record to Blacksmith's PPC and SEO roster. Proof trail at adhi-growth-ai.vercel.app/ref/blacksmith-agency.
