

PITCH DECK | REVOLUT ENTREPRENEUR IN RESIDENCE

You are looking for someone who has already built a product's full P&L from a blank page. I am doing that right now, and I have also turned an underperforming line into a repeatable revenue program inside a public company.

Founder-grade product ownership, plus the operating discipline of running OKRs and quarterly business reviews at scale.

Founder & CEO of PriceKeel, in pilots and raising its first round

$700K+ margin recovered in 2 quarters, Sensata Bleeders and Leakers program

53% to 61% distributor margin lift, repricing logic that held

8-person team hired and managed across 8 client P&Ls at Pixis

Promoted in 10 months, Product & Growth Marketing to Pricing Lead

An Entrepreneur in Residence has to do two things a normal product hire does not: start something from nothing, and fix something that already exists.

What the seat actually demands

Developing a new product from inception is a different skill than running an established roadmap: there is no backlog to inherit, no existing revenue model, and no team until someone builds one.

Revitalizing an underperforming initiative is the harder twin problem: the team, the roadmap and the revenue model already exist, and the job is to find where the case for change is strongest before touching anything.

Both need the same person to own the full P&L, from strategy and revenue modeling through growth optimization, and to direct a team and a set of cross-functional partners through it.

What I have already run, on both sides of that problem

At PriceKeel, I am building a product from inception right now: designed the guardrail engine and audit trail, set up the CRM, CPQ and deal-approval process from zero, and I am running pilots while raising the company's first round.

At Sensata, I took an underperforming margin line and turned it into the Bleeders and Leakers program, ranking 1,200 pricing opportunities against a $627M target and negotiating $700K plus of that back into margin in two quarters.

Both required the same discipline: revenue modeling grounded in real numbers, a team pointed at the highest-leverage fix, and a P&L that moved because of it.

A candidate who has founded a company and revitalized a stalled revenue line inside a large company is not two different profiles. It is one operating pattern, applied to a founding problem and a fixing problem, which is exactly the range this role asks for.

What the Entrepreneur in Residence opening asks for, and where the proof sits.

What the role covers

- "Develop new products from inception, or revitalize underperforming initiatives."*
- "Full product P&L ownership, from strategy and revenue modeling through growth optimization."*
- Manages the full product lifecycle; builds and directs teams; cross-functional work with Design, Engineering, Marketing, Legal, FinCrime.*

My Proof

- PriceKeel, founded and run today: a product built from inception, with its own guardrail engine, audit trail, CRM, CPQ and deal-approval process.
- Sensata Bleeders and Leakers program: an underperforming margin line turned into $700K+ recovered in 2 quarters and a distributor margin lift from 53% to 61%.
- Applied Materials today: partners across Sales, Engineering and Accounts, carrying P&L and revenue targets across multiple product groups.
- Pixis: hired and directed an 8-person team running 8 client P&Ls, cutting churn 50% while carrying full revenue targets.

Bleeders and Leakers: rank the underperforming line, fix it, make the fix hold.

Built as a BU-wide Power BI system covering 1,200 pricing opportunities against a $627M target across 3 regions, 4 product families and 20 product lines, with pipeline funnel, win rate and stage distribution by salesperson and product line.

$433M

Margin Opportunity Surfaced

The dashboard's job: rank every underperforming line into a case leadership could act on, instead of chasing anecdotes account by account.

$700K+

Margin Recovered in 2 Quarters

Closed through negotiations grounded in competitive data and documented customer willingness to pay, not across-the-board price hikes.

53% to 61%

Distributor Margin Lift

Repriced the channel logic itself, so the fix held past the first cycle instead of drifting back within a quarter.

The same role carried AP26 revenue models and multimillion-dollar customer quotes alongside senior executives, plus the leadership decks and OKR cadence that kept a multi-$100M business aligned. The pattern: find the number, build the team and process around fixing it, then prove it stuck.

What the first month as Revolut's Entrepreneur in Residence looks like.

WEEK 1 Map the candidate initiatives Sit with Design, Engineering, Marketing, Legal and FinCrime to hear which new product ideas and underperforming initiatives are already on the table, and where each one's revenue model and ownership currently stand. ----- Why first: the strongest opportunity is usually visible in what already exists. Same move that started the Bleeders and Leakers program at Sensata.	WEEK 2-3 Build the P&L and the team Turn the strongest opportunity into a revenue model and a growth plan, then build or direct the cross-functional team needed to run it, pressure-testing assumptions with Legal and FinCrime before scaling spend. ----- Why now: building the model with the real stakeholders in the room, not in a vacuum, is what made the 53% to 61% distributor gain stick.	WEEK 4 Ship and instrument it Launch the first version, put the OKR cadence and reporting rhythm in place, and set the growth-optimization loop that lets the initiative run without a founder in every meeting. ----- Why this fast: a product only earns the name "owned" once it can run a full lifecycle without you in the room.

CLOSE

You are hiring someone to own a product's full P&L, not just run one project. I have already done that as a founder, and I have already done it fixing someone else's underperforming line.

The founder half of the proof is live today: PriceKeel, built from inception, with its own guardrail engine, audit trail and deal-approval process, now in pilots while I raise the company's first round.

The revitalization half is Sensata: $700K+ recovered in 2 quarters and distributor margins lifted from 53% to 61%, both grounded in revenue modeling and both proven to hold after they shipped. I carry that same P&L and revenue-target discipline today at Applied Materials, working across Sales, Engineering and Accounts the way this role will work across Design, Engineering, Marketing, Legal and FinCrime.
