Adhithya Rokhith Bhaskar

San Francisco Bay Area, CA | arokhith@gmail.com | +1-929-563-9974

October 17, 2026

Hiring Team, Yelp

Your posting asks for someone to design reacquisition journeys for lapsed users and build segmentation for at-risk cohorts. At Pixis I did exactly that: I cut client churn 50% across an 8-client book by designing reacquisition journeys and vertical retention playbooks instead of a single generic winback email, then used Amplitude and Tableau to segment accounts by engagement signal so the team knew which cohort needed a nudge and which needed a rebuild. That same instinct, segment first, then design the journey, is what I would bring to onboarding and re-engagement across Services and RFN.

The acquisition side runs the same playbook. At Plug Power I owned $100K/month in paid budgets across Google, Microsoft and Meta, ran 15+ growth experiments and landed -25% CPA and -50% cost per lead by automating the lead flow end to end. At GenY Medium I rebuilt Google Merchant Center and catalog feeds for D2C brands and delivered 16x ROAS, the kind of off-platform channel work that moves new users in the door. Both jobs taught me the same thing your mid-funnel ask is testing for: acquisition only compounds when the handoff after the click is as tight as the bid.

I also run my own reporting through Claude agents at Applied Materials, building forecasting models that flag market inflection points early, so using AI tools for consumer insight is not a new habit I would need to build on the job.

Proof trail at adhi-growth-ai.vercel.app/ref/yelp.

Adhithya Rokhith Bhaskar