Hiring Team, Title Nine

At Plug Power I owned Paid Search across Google Ads and Microsoft Ads, building smart-bidding account structures and running 15+ A/B tests on keywords and landing pages that cut CPA 25%, then automated the lead flow to cut cost per lead 50%. That is the architecture your posting is asking one person to own end to end: a clean, scalable account structure, keyword and bid discipline tuned to what the machine learning needs, and a test roadmap that proves which lever actually moved the number.

The feed and retail side is familiar too. At Pixis I ran an 8-client D2C portfolio at $15K-$90K per client per month, including a shopping feed cleanup, smart bidding and creative refresh that delivered 3x ROAS in one month for a fashion brand, plus retail media on Amazon Ads and Criteo. Feed health decides most of Shopping and PMAX performance before a single bid ever moves, so a feed audit is always the first thing I check, not the last.

Paid Social is where I'd be supporting rather than leading day to day, and that split fits how you've structured the role: I ran Meta and LinkedIn campaigns at Plug Power and retail media plus iOS app UA at Pixis, and I'm used to feeding search-intent signals into what gets tested on the social side next. I also automate my own reporting and feed audits with AI agents built on Claude at Applied Materials, the habit that keeps a one-person Paid Search seat from drowning in manual QA during a promotional calendar crunch.
