

PITCH DECK | AUXIA PRODUCT MARKETING LEAD

Building a category story with no existing playbook is a job I have already done once, for a product line that did not exist yet either. I would like to do it again, for agentic marketing.

A GTM narrative built from zero to $2M+ in first-year revenue, and the daily habit of using agentic AI tools myself, not just marketing them.

$2M+ first-year revenue from a GTM narrative built with no existing playbook

+30% win rate from sales enablement built for 50+ reps

30+ customer interviews run to find the story before writing it

AI agents built on Claude, used daily, not described secondhand

Founder instinct: builds functions from zero, not just features

Adhithya Rokhith Bhaskar

San Francisco Bay Area, CA | arokhith@gmail.com | +1-929-563-9974 | adhi-product-ai.vercel.app/ref/auxia

The job is not "market the product." It is deciding what the category stands for before anyone else writes that story.

What that actually requires

A narrative built from direct customer and competitor research, not a template borrowed from an adjacent category.

Enough agency to build the function from the ground up: positioning, enablement and thought leadership, with no team yet to delegate to.

A genuine point of view on the AI tools the category sells, earned by using them, not by reading about them.

What I have already run

At Sensata, I owned the GTM narrative for a brand-new product line end to end, no existing playbook, driving $2M+ in first-year revenue.

I ran 30+ structured interviews with OEMs and distributors before writing a word of positioning, then built the sales enablement that lifted win rates 30%.

I automate my own recurring market analysis with Claude AI agents today, the same agentic category Auxia sells, as a daily user.

The through-line: every narrative I have built started from direct customer research, not a competitor's positioning deck reworded.

What the posting asks for, and where the proof already sits.

What the role covers

- "Define, articulate, and evolve Auxia's core positioning, messaging, and narrative strategy."*
- "Proven ability to build and scale product marketing functions from the ground up."*
- "Become the expert on our customers, competitors, market trends, and emerging AI technologies."*

My proof

- Sensata, narrative from zero: owned positioning, messaging and launch execution end to end for new sensing products, no playbook to inherit.
- Function built from the ground up: turned 30+ customer interviews into sales enablement for 50+ reps, lifting win rates 30%.
- Expert on AI technologies: automates recurring analysis with Claude AI agents daily, the exact category this role markets.
- Competitive intelligence: ran competitor and customer analysis across EMEA and the US at Sensata, finding opportunities competitors missed.

Research the customer, write the narrative, then arm the team that has to sell it.

The same three-step pattern built once at Sensata for a category with no existing story: talk to the customer directly, write the positioning from what they actually said, then give sales the material to repeat it.

$2M+

First-Year Revenue, GTM From Zero

Positioning, messaging and launch execution built end to end for a brand-new sensing product line at Sensata.

+30% Win Rate

Sales Enablement for 50+ Reps

Built from 30+ structured customer interviews, not a template, and turned into decks and case studies reps actually used.

Daily AI User

Claude Agents in My Own Workflow

Automates recurring market and competitive analysis with Claude agents today at Applied Materials.

None of this was a positioning doc that sat in a folder. Each step closed the loop from customer research to a number sales was accountable for.

What the first month building Auxia's product marketing function looks like.

WEEK 1

Run direct customer and competitor research

Talk to Auxia's existing enterprise customers and run the competitive teardown on agentic marketing platforms before writing a word of positioning.

Why first: the same first move behind the Sensata narrative, research before writing.

WEEK 2-3

Write the category narrative and build one enablement asset

Draft the core positioning and a founder-facing narrative, then build the first sales enablement piece (deck or case study) and test it with the GTM team.

Why now: the same enablement-from-research build that lifted Sensata's win rate 30%.

WEEK 4

Publish the first thought-leadership piece

Turn the customer research into a public point of view on agentic marketing, establishing the external voice this role is meant to own.

Why this fast: the function has no existing cadence yet, so the first piece sets the pace.

CLOSE

You are hiring someone to build a category story from zero. I have already built one, for a product line with no existing playbook, and put a number on it.

The narrative half: $2M+ first-year revenue from GTM positioning and messaging built end to end at Sensata, backed by 30+ structured customer interviews before a word was written.

The enablement half: +30% win rate from sales enablement built for 50+ reps, and a daily habit of using Claude AI agents in my own workflow, the same category Auxia sells.

Adhithya Rokhith Bhaskar | San Francisco Bay Area, CA | arokhith@gmail.com | +1-929-563-9974

Resume and portfolio: adhi-product-ai.vercel.app/ref/auxia | LinkedIn: linkedin.com/in/adhithyarokhith