Hiring Team, Incline Gaming Marketing

At Pixis I ran paid user acquisition for 8 client accounts at once, each with its own budget, creative and attribution setup, deciding weekly what to scale or cut. iOS app install campaigns ran through Appsflyer and Adjust, retail media ran through Amazon Ads and Criteo, and Amplitude and Tableau told me which of 30+ live campaigns were paying back and which needed a creative or bid change that week. Running a portfolio of client brands instead of one product, each with its own targets, is a familiar shape of problem for me, not a new one.

The channel execution lines up directly too. At Plug Power I ran Paid Search and Paid Social across Google Ads, Microsoft Ads, Meta and LinkedIn on a $100K/month budget, with 15+ A/B tests on bid strategy and creative cutting CPA 25% and cost per lead 50%. I built the plans and forecasts that budget had to clear with leadership, so I'm used to defending channel mix and spend with numbers, not just running the campaigns underneath them.

What I'd bring beyond the channel work is the habit of questioning the UA playbook rather than just executing it: at Pixis that meant rebuilding a client's full funnel (shopping feed, smart bidding, creative, lookalikes) to hit 3x ROAS in a month rather than nursing an underperforming setup. I also automate my own reporting with Claude agents at Applied Materials, the kind of AI-assisted analysis your posting calls out directly.
