

Adhithya Rokhith Bhaskar

San Francisco Bay Area, CA | arokhith@gmail.com | +1-929-563-9974

September 30, 2026

Hiring Team, ObserveAI

Your posting asks for someone who is glad to roll up their sleeves on day-to-day enablement work, not manage it from a distance. That is the job I already do: at Sensata I built the sales decks and case studies that 50+ reps carried into technical sales conversations, and that content lifted win rates 30%.

The harder part of that role is keeping everything consistent as the product and the templates change. I wrote the positioning that turned Sensata's dense sensor specs into a value story a technical buyer would actually act on, working closely with Engineering and Accounts to keep it accurate, then ran 30+ customer interviews so the language matched how buyers actually talk. That is the loop I would run for your Product Marketing, Customer Success, Design and Sales partners: keep every one-pager, case study and piece of sales content current, on-brand and easy to find.

I am also the person on my current team who automates the boring half of this work. At Applied Materials I run AI agents built on Claude to keep competitive and pricing content current instead of rebuilding it by hand every cycle, the same new-tools-first habit your posting describes wanting on the team.

I would like to bring that positioning-to-enablement pipeline to Observe.AI. Proof trail at adhi-product-ai.vercel.app/ref/observeai. Happy to talk whenever works on your side.

Adhithya Rokhith Bhaskar