Hiring Team, Plaid

At Sensata I owned the GTM for new sensing products through a network of OEM and distributor partners, which meant translating a technical integration into positioning both sides could sell. That same partner-facing GTM work, propositions, launches, enablement content, performance tracking, is what your posting is describing for AI and financial partners instead of hardware integrations.

The enablement and cross-functional alignment are not new to me either. I built the sales enablement decks and case studies that got 50-plus reps actually using a new pitch, lifting win rates 30%, after running 30-plus interviews with OEM and distributor partners to find what was actually blocking adoption before I wrote a word of positioning. I also raised distributor and channel-partner margins from 53% to 61% at Sensata, so I understand the partner-economics side of a co-marketing budget, not just the campaign side.

The AI leverage your posting asks for is already how I operate. At Applied Materials I automate repetitive partner and market analysis with Claude agents, and I built an AI job-matching platform from a blank PRD to 50-plus users, so I can speak to an AI partner's product the way a partner marketer needs to, not just market around it.
