PITCH DECK | ASSORT HEALTH SENIOR PRODUCT MARKETING MANAGER

Assort Health is building two of its hardest product marketing hires at once: a competitive intelligence function and an analyst relations motion. Here is proof both are already running at full speed elsewhere.

A competitive-intelligence-to-launch track record built across Sensata and Applied Materials, paired with the pricing and packaging partnership this role names as a core ownership area.

- EMEA/US competitive analysis - owned competitor and customer intelligence end to end at Sensata
- $2M+ launch - owned GTM end to end (positioning, pricing, channel, launch)
- 50+ reps / +30% win rate - built the sales enablement library from scratch
- $700K+ margin recovered - pricing and packaging partnership as Sensata's Pricing Lead
- AI agents on Claude - automating market and competitive analysis in production today

Adhithya Rokhith Bhaskar

San Francisco Bay Area, CA | arokhith@gmail.com | +1-929-563-9974 | adhi-product-ai.vercel.app/ref/assort-health

WHY THIS DECK EXISTS

A product marketing function built from zero can only move as fast as its first competitive intelligence hire. A function that is still learning the market while the market is moving 20x is a revenue problem, not a hiring one.

What building that function actually requires

Competitor tracking, win/loss analysis and real-time battlecards that sales can act on the same week a competitor moves, not the same quarter.

Analyst relationships, KLAS, Gartner, that take real time to build and compound in value the earlier they start.

A unified positioning and messaging framework that every GTM motion uses consistently, built once and socialized everywhere.

What I have already built at that exact seam

Ran competitor and customer analysis across EMEA and the US at Sensata, turning purchasing patterns and competitor share into the sales team's own point of view.

Wrote the positioning and messaging framework for a new product line and socialized it into a launch that drove $2M+ in first-year revenue.

Built the sales enablement library, battlecards, case studies, objection handling, that lifted win rates 30% for 50+ reps.

> The through-line: I have already stood up the competitive-intelligence-to-enablement loop once, at a company where nobody owned it before I did.

THE MANDATE, MAPPED

What the Assort Health posting asks for, and where the proof already sits.

What the role covers

> "Own Assort's competitive intelligence function end to end, competitor tracking, win/loss analysis, and real-time battlecards."

> "Build and manage relationships with leading healthcare industry analysts (e.g., KLAS, Gartner)."

> "Own and socialize a unified messaging and positioning framework... used consistently across all GTM motions."

> "Lead integrated product launches... to drive 30%+ of net-new pipeline."

My proof

Competitive intelligence end to end: ran competitor and customer analysis across EMEA and the US, finding revenue opportunities in purchasing patterns and competitor market share.

Market-perception work that scales to analyst relations: presented competitive and pricing findings directly to Safran leadership to inform a market-entry decision.

Unified messaging and positioning: wrote the framework that turned technical sensing features into customer value propositions, lifting conversion 15%.

Integrated launches driving pipeline: owned GTM end to end (positioning, pricing, channel, launch) for a new product line to $2M+ in first-year revenue.

THE LAUNCH AND PRICING PROOF, IN DEPTH

Competitive intelligence, launch and pricing, the three ownership areas named in the posting, run together, not in isolation.

Built as the owner of competitive intelligence, GTM and the pricing partnership for a new product line, not handed a messaging doc to localize after someone else did the work.

$2M+

First-Year Revenue, New Product Line

Owned positioning, pricing, channel and launch end to end at Sensata, the same integrated-launch motion Assort's 30%+ net-new pipeline target depends on.

50+ / 30%

Reps Enabled / Win-Rate Lift

A competitive battlecard and case-study library built from real EMEA/US benchmarking, the same format a growing revenue team needs adopted everywhere.

$700K+ / 53-61%

Margin Recovered / Distributor Margin Lift

Partnered with senior executives on pricing and packaging as Sensata's Pricing Lead, the exact cross-functional seam this role names with Product and Revenue leadership.

The market-sizing discipline behind it runs live today at Applied Materials: sizing the market with Sales, Engineering and Accounts, then automating the competitive analysis with AI agents built on Claude.

FIRST 30 DAYS

What the first month building Assort's product marketing function would look like.

WEEK 1

Sit in on win/loss calls, not the deck library

Pull the last quarter of win/loss calls and sit in on the next ones directly, the same move that grounded the Sensata competitive analysis in real purchasing-pattern data instead of a guess.

Why first: a battlecard built on assumptions is the fastest way to lose a rep's trust in it before it ever ships.

WEEK 2-3

Ship the first real-time battlecard

Build the single battlecard most likely to change a live deal this quarter, benchmarked the same way the Sensata enablement library was, then socialize the unified positioning framework alongside it.

Why now: one battlecard in active use in a live deal beats a competitive-intelligence playbook nobody has opened yet.

WEEK 4

Open the first analyst conversation

Set the competitor-tracking and win/loss cadence that keeps the battlecards current, and start the first KLAS or Gartner briefing conversation so analyst relations compounds from day one rather than quarter three.

Why this fast: analyst relationships take real time to build, so the earliest start is the only one that matters.

CLOSE

Assort Health needs a product marketer who already owns competitive intelligence end to end and partners on pricing and packaging. I already run that loop.

The core proof is one technical-product launch and one pricing partnership, both at Sensata: competitor and customer analysis across EMEA and the US that became the sales team's point of view, and a $2M+ first-year launch built on the positioning and enablement I wrote myself.

What transfers immediately to Assort is the mechanics this role is built around: competitive intelligence that compounds into battlecards, a messaging framework every GTM motion can use, and a pricing and packaging partnership with Product and Revenue leadership that is already live at Applied Materials.

Adhithya Rokhith Bhaskar | San Francisco Bay Area, CA | arokhith@gmail.com | +1-929-563-9974
Resume and portfolio: adhi-product-ai.vercel.app/ref/assort-health | LinkedIn: linkedin.com/in/adhithyarokhith