

Adhithya Rokhith Bhaskar

San Francisco Bay Area, CA | arokhith@gmail.com | +1-929-563-9974

October 1, 2026

Hiring Team, Cypherock Wallet

A hardware wallet lives or dies on trust before it ever gets to growth, and the growth motion for it is split across three surfaces at once: the online store, the companion app, and the retail channels people actually discover the product through. That is the exact mix I have run before. At GenY Medium I rebuilt the Google Merchant Center and Meta catalog feeds for a D2C brand and took it to 16x ROAS, and at Pixis I ran iOS app paid UA on Appsflyer and Adjust alongside retail media on Amazon Ads and Criteo for an 8-client portfolio. A Founder's Office - Growth seat at a crypto hardware wallet company needs someone who has already run acquisition across store, app and retail media as one system, not three separate jobs.

The "Founder's Office" half of the title is the part I am living right now. I set up PriceKeel's GTM, CRM and pipeline reviews from zero as its founder, which means every growth call, every pricing call and every investor conversation runs through me directly, with no layer in between. That is the operating rhythm a founder's office at a company your size needs: someone who can sit next to the founder, carry a number, and not need it translated into a brief first.

Retention is the other half of growth, and I have built that playbook too. At Pixis I cut client churn 50% through account strategy and channel diversification rather than discounting, and at Sensata I raised distributor margins from 53% to 61% through pricing realignment instead of concessions. For a crypto hardware wallet, the equivalent is keeping a buyer past the first unboxing: trust and retention work the same way, built on substance rather than markdowns.

I also build my own reporting leverage: I automate recurring growth analysis with AI agents built on Claude, which matters more at a lean team moving fast than at one with a dashboard team already in place. Proof trail at adhi-growth-ai.vercel.app/ref/cypherock-wallet.

Adhithya Rokhith Bhaskar