Adhithya Rokhith Bhaskar

San Francisco Bay Area, CA | arokhith@gmail.com | +1-929-563-9974

October 30, 2026

Hiring Team, Fluke Health Solutions

At Plug Power I owned a $100K/month marketing budget across multiple business units, decided which campaigns got funded and which got cut, and took the plan and the ROI on each one back to the leadership team for approval. That is the core of what this req is asking for: run commercial marketing as a system leadership can see the return on, not a stack of campaigns that each report their own number.

The demand-gen and customer-journey side of the role is work I already run end to end. At Sensata I built the KPI frameworks in SQL and GA4 that mapped how buyers moved across 50,000+ connected industrial devices, and I owned the customer messaging and content that turned technical sensing features into a buyer story, working directly with Product Management on positioning that lifted conversion 15% on priority launches. That same loop, research in, message out, measured by what it converts, is what your posting describes for brand and demand generation together.

I have also owned the infrastructure under a content program, not just the campaigns sitting on top of it. I automated the WordPress and Pardot lead flow at Plug Power so cost per lead fell 50%, and built the SEO partnerships that raised organic visibility 35%, the website and content layer that has to work before a campaign can convert. At Applied Materials I now turn that same discipline into forecasting and market-sizing models for Sales and Engineering, automating the repetitive side of that reporting with AI agents built on Claude.

Fluke Health Solutions sells into biomedical engineering teams inside hospitals and health systems, a buyer as technical and regulated as the industrial and semiconductor accounts I have priced and marketed into at Sensata and Applied Materials. I would welcome the chance to talk through how that commercial marketing and campaign-prioritization work maps onto this seat. Proof trail at adhi-growth.vercel.app/ref/fluke-health-solutions.

Adhithya Rokhith Bhaskar