Hiring Team, Verkada

Your posting asks for someone to review discount approval requests and analyze competitive dynamics on a deal by deal basis to maximize gross margin, without slowing down a sales team that needs to move fast. I built that exact discipline at PriceKeel: a guardrail engine that reviews every discount exception against competitive dynamics and customer willingness to pay, explainable enough that Finance can audit the decision afterward instead of trusting a Slack thread. That is the job your posting describes, not an adjacent skill I would need to translate.

Before PriceKeel, I led pricing for Sensata's Industrial BU, a multi-$100M business spanning 3 regions, 4 product families and 20 product lines. Balancing revenue against margin there meant building the FY2026 Bleeders and Leakers Power BI dashboard, ranking 1,200 pricing opportunities against a $627M target, which surfaced $433M in margin gaps by product line. Negotiating those gaps deal by deal with Sales and Finance recovered $700K+ in margin in 2 quarters and raised distributor and channel-partner margins from 53% to 61%, the same revenue-versus-margin tradeoff a team runs across multiple products, channels, segments and geographies.

The deals I have worked ranged the same way yours do: multimillion-dollar customer quotes alongside senior Sensata executives, and smaller distributor repricing that still had to hold past the quarter it was fixed in. I also like finding the project nobody assigned me. The Bleeders and Leakers program started as my own initiative to find where the catalog was bleeding margin, not a request from above, the same independent-project habit this role is built around.

At Applied Materials now, I automate the recurring parts of pricing analysis with Claude-based AI agents, the same agentic coding-assistant habit your posting calls out as a bonus for automating business processes.

What I bring beyond the resume is PriceKeel itself: a pricing platform built specifically to make discount governance explainable and auditable, the same discipline a growing Deal Desk is built to scale. Portfolio and pricing case studies: https://adhi-pricing-ai.vercel.app/ref/verkada
