

Adhithya Rokhith Bhaskar

San Francisco Bay Area, CA | arokhith@gmail.com | +1-929-563-9974

October 1, 2026

Hiring Team, Quantum Metric

Your posting asks for someone who has structured and quoted complex SaaS transactions, not just checked a rate card against a template. I ran that exact motion at Sensata leading the Bleeders and Leakers program: deal-by-deal review of prior quote terms and competitive gaps against each customer's willingness to pay, recovering $700K plus in margin in two quarters. That is a transaction-level judgment call made on every deal, not a once-a-quarter exercise.

I have since built the tooling side of the same desk. PriceKeel, the company I founded, flags a discount exception inside the deal platform before a deal closes and recommends a guardrail learned from a company's own closed-won and closed-lost history. I set up and run its CRM and CPQ configuration myself, the same Salesforce and CPQ ownership your Deal Desk seat holds for every Order Form, and I built the audit trail that gives Finance an explainable record behind every exception and contract term, so process improvement is not a side project, it is the job.

The redline side is not new work either. At Sensata I negotiated multimillion-dollar customer quotes with senior executives and built the AP26 revenue models behind them, where every non-standard term had to be documented and signed off before a deal moved forward. Drafting the Order Form and managing the back-and-forth on terms is the same discipline at a different desk, just with Legal in the room instead of Finance.

I noticed the line about not expecting every candidate to check every box. I would rather show you the system I already run than ask you to take that on faith. Proof trail at adhi-pricing-ai.vercel.app/ref/quantum-metric.

Adhithya Rokhith Bhaskar