Hiring Team, Justdial Limited

Your posting asks for someone who can bridge leadership intent and ground execution for the CPTO across Product, Engineering, AI, Data, Infrastructure and Security, and keep that execution visible through a weekly operating rhythm. That is the exact job I already run for myself at PriceKeel, the B2B SaaS pricing company I founded: I set the CRM and pipeline reviews, run the deal-approval process, and hold every workstream, from product build to fundraising, to a dated outcome instead of a status update. I am the one person converting a strategic call into an execution plan, which is the muscle a Chief of Staff needs on day one.

I have also run that muscle inside much larger organizations. At Applied Materials I partner across Sales, Engineering and Accounts to turn scattered field and technical input into one market view, and I run the OKR cadence behind weekly and quarterly business reviews so cross-functional teams stay pointed at the same number instead of drifting apart. At Sensata I sat close enough to the executive team to build the AP26 revenue models and site-transition strategy myself, and I ran the Bleeders and Leakers program off a dashboarded opportunity list through negotiated closure, recovering $700K plus in margin in two quarters. Both roles required tracking initiatives against goals, timelines and owners, flagging gaps early, and getting people outside my own function to close on commitments, which is precisely the operating rhythm this role is built around.

One more thing that should matter for a CPTO's office specifically: I already automate the repetitive research and reporting work in my own job with AI agents built on Claude, so I show up already thinking in the AI, Data and Platform vocabulary your initiatives run on. I have also hired and managed teams end to end, from an 8-person account team at Pixis to the team behind my own product, SwipeHire, so the people side of keeping product and technology leaders aligned is not new ground either.
