Hiring Team, Airwallex

Your posting draws a line most performance marketers never have to cross: turning upper-funnel storytelling into a number Finance will actually credit. At Sensata I built the KPI frameworks in SQL and GA4 that read engagement across 50K+ connected devices and pointed our launch spend at the cohorts already showing intent, not just the ones with reach. That work lifted feature adoption 18% and, on the messaging side, turned technical specs into customer value language that lifted conversion 15% on our priority launches. I already run the brand-to-outcome translation this role is asking someone to own.

The harder version of that problem is proving an awareness dollar changed a performance number, which is exactly what I did at Pixis and Plug Power. At Pixis I restructured a fashion brand's full funnel end to end, feed cleanup, smart bidding, creative refresh, lookalike expansion, for 3x ROAS in a single month, and used Amplitude and Tableau to put brand and performance data on one dashboard instead of two. At Plug Power, closing keyword-strategy shortfalls lifted organic search visibility 35% in the same stretch that CPA dropped 25% and cost per lead fell 50%, which is the closest thing I have to proof that brand reach and performance efficiency move together when the tracking is built right, not treated as a tradeoff.

I also carry the CRM plumbing your posting expects underneath the creative work. I automated the Salesforce, Adobe Analytics and Google Tag Manager stack at Plug Power so every UTM tied back to MQL quality and stage 1 pipeline, and I ran 15+ A/B tests across 50+ inbound campaigns to keep that attribution honest rather than assumed. I automate the reporting side of that discipline with Claude AI agents at Applied Materials today, so more of the week goes to reading what the incrementality data says and less to building the pivot table that shows it.

What I would bring to the Brandformance seat is a marketer who has already treated brand and performance as one measurement problem, not two teams filing separate reports, and who can back it up with CAC and pipeline receipts, not a good story.
