Adhithya Rokhith Bhaskar

San Francisco Bay Area, CA | arokhith@gmail.com | +1-929-563-9974

October 14, 2026

Hiring Team, PostHog

You're explicitly looking for someone who has been a technical founder, not a career product manager who writes PRDs. I'm in that seat right now: as founder of PriceKeel, I designed the guardrail logic that catches a discount exception inside a deal platform, wrote the audit trail Finance would need to trust it, and run the company's CRM, CPQ, forecast reviews and deal approvals myself. There's no backlog to groom and no engineer to shield from the data, because right now I am the data.

At Sensata I built the muscle your monthly growth review runs on before I ever called it that. I instrumented SQL and GA4 KPI frameworks across 50,000+ connected devices to find which behavioral cohorts actually stuck, ran 30+ interviews with OEMs and distributors to find out why specific accounts were churning, and used what I found to reprioritize a 100+-feature backlog, cutting time-to-market 20%. Later, as Pricing Lead, I went looking for a data deep dive nobody had assigned me: the Bleeders and Leakers program surfaced $433M in margin gaps against a $627M target, and I used it to recover $700K+ in two quarters.

PostHog is competing with incumbents many times its size, and that's the other half of what I've done. Competitive benchmarking against 10+ players drove a 12% revenue lift at Sensata, and SwipeHire, the job-matching platform I built zero-to-one in Python and React, forced me to price and package a product from scratch instead of inheriting someone else's pricing sheet.

I'd like 15 minutes to talk about where your product data points next. Proof trail at adhi-product-ai.vercel.app/ref/posthog.

Adhithya Rokhith Bhaskar