Hiring Team, Confido,

Confido is building an AI-native operating system for CPG brands that sell into brick-and-mortar retail - exactly the kind of buyer I have been building marketing programs for over the last 4 years. The Founding Growth JD describes a generalist who runs multi-channel marketing, writes content for product launches, owns the website, and partners cross-functionally without waiting for a playbook. That is the work I have already done at Pixis, Plug Power, and GenY - and the work I am most excited about doing again at a 5x-YoY company growing into 200+ brands.

What I bring to a CPG audience specifically:

- GenY (D2C consumer brand): 16x ROAS via Google Merchant Center and Meta catalog rebuild - feed cleanup, schema fixes, structured Shopping campaigns, weekly creative refresh. Lifecycle email programs (cart abandonment, post-purchase, re-engagement) on Klaviyo and Shopify; email-attributed revenue per send 2x lift.
- Pixis (8 enterprise clients on an AI marketing platform): D2C and B2B SaaS portfolio with per-client monthly budgets of $15K-$90K. Trained 8 marketing teams on the AI engine. Validated 3x ROAS in one month for a fashion D2C partner via holdout incrementality testing. Cut client churn 50%.
- Plug Power (multi-channel and content): rebuilt the MarTech stack on HubSpot + Salesforce + Adobe + GA + GTM. -25% CPA, +20% conversion across Google + Meta + LinkedIn + programmatic. Coordinated 3 industry conferences and 6+ webinars; wrote product announcements, case studies, and long-form content.
- SwipeHire (AI-product founder): built solo on Python + OpenAI API + React (app.swipehire.io). 50+ early users, +25% activation, zero paid budget. So I understand both sides of the AI product - what it feels like to build it and what it feels like to market it.

Why I am not the "vacation seeker" Confido is filtering against: I am ready to relocate to NYC and work the 5-day-in-office cadence. I take pride in shipping fast and clean.

Looking forward to talking.
