Hiring Team, Gong

Gong's Paid Social role needs someone who can run LinkedIn and Meta at enterprise scale, guide agency partners on structure and creative, sequence ABM plays for high-value accounts, and own the pipeline contribution number to leadership. Those four things are not usually the same person. I have been running them as the same role for four years, which is why this JD reads like a fit I want to compete for.

Plug Power, full-funnel paid social at B2B scale. I rebuilt the entire paid + MarTech stack at Plug Power from scratch: Salesforce + HubSpot + Adobe Analytics + Adobe Audience Manager + GA + GTM, with closed-loop attribution ad-click to SQL. I ran LinkedIn and Meta as the primary B2B channels for named hydrogen-energy accounts, sequenced them with SA360 paid search and email lifecycle for full-funnel alignment, and tested creative, landing pages, and audience segments every week. -25% CPA, +20% conversion, 15% less wasted spend. When the JD says "establish paid social strategy with clear objectives and full-funnel alignment," that is the motion I have been reporting on for 18 months.

Pixis, $1.4M enterprise SaaS book across 8 accounts. I owned 8 enterprise clients on an AI adtech SaaS with a shared $1.4M budget across Google, Meta, and programmatic. Weekly test-and-learn cycles on creative, audience, and bidding. 3x ROAS in 30 days for a leading fashion brand. -50% churn across the book. Built per-vertical playbooks that Sales used for enterprise expansion pitches. This is the exact shape of work the JD describes when it asks for "tailor strategies by business segment, including enterprise and ABM approaches."

SwipeHire, test-and-learn rigor as default mode. Built a production AI consumer product solo in six weeks on OpenAI API and React. 50+ users, +25% activation via 8+ A/B tests on creative, landing pages, and onboarding. Instrumented GA4 + GTM + cohort retention dashboards and ran CAC + LTV analysis daily. Full-funnel ownership from zero trains a specific kind of prioritization: when you own everything, you only work on what moves revenue.

AI-accelerated campaign layer. Four Anthropic Claude certifications including Building with the Claude API. I run a Claude draft-and-critique content pipeline in production (one Claude call drafts ad copy variants, a second scores them against brief and brand voice, a human gate ships) for 8x variant velocity at consistent quality. In 2026 the paid social manager who can 10x creative output at ABM precision compounds fast.

ABM + measurement discipline. MS Marketing Analytics at Simon (Rochester) on causal inference, pricing analytics, and experiment design. Power BI executive dashboard on $627M pipeline at Sensata with $433M in margin gaps surfaced for Sales leadership. SQL daily. The pipeline-contribution reporting and strategic-insight readouts the JD mentions are the deliverable I already produce weekly.

On stack specifics: Salesforce is home, HubSpot is daily, LinkedIn Campaign Manager and Meta Ads Manager are production muscles. Marketo is a one-week ramp from HubSpot. Demandbase and 6sense are Salesforce-integrated and run the same ABM mental model I ran at Plug Power. No meaningful ramp penalty.

Would welcome 20 minutes on Gong's current paid social test-and-learn priorities and where the biggest LinkedIn + Meta pipeline-contribution gap sits today.
