Hiring Team, Responsive,

The PMM role at Responsive lines up with the shape of work I am doing right now: B2B SaaS positioning, launches, and the kind of sales enablement that actually moves revenue. I also know your customer from the inside - I ran a 4-vendor MarTech RFP at Plug Power coordinating Procurement, Legal, and 6 cross-functional stakeholders, so I understand the workflow Responsive automates from the buyer's seat.

Direct evidence of fit:

- Sales enablement that lifted win rates +30%: Built and shipped a sales enablement library used by 50+ reps at Sensata - battlecards, pitch decks, objection handling, technical one-pagers. This is the "equip the front lines to shine" outcome, not a deliverables list.
- B2B SaaS PMM chops: At Pixis (AI marketing platform), ran an 8-client B2B SaaS portfolio with weekly CFO-level QBRs - acted as voice-of-customer back to Product, cut churn 50% via documented renewal playbooks on a SaaS product still finding PMF.
- Launches that produced revenue: Owned positioning, GTM, and launch motion for new product lines across NA and EU at Sensata: $2M+ first-year revenue, +12% YoY, and +8% market share gain. Influenced AP26 revenue models with senior executives.
- Customer and competitive research: Ran 30+ structured customer interviews with enterprise OEMs and distributors; translated insights into positioning and roadmap. CSAT +22%, feature adoption +18% across 50K+ devices.
- AI-driven workflow operator: Built an AI-driven product (SwipeHire) end-to-end on Python + React, instrumented analytics, ran 8+ A/B tests. I will embed AI into PMM operations day one, not as a side project.

On qualifications: MS in Marketing Analytics from Simon Business School (U. of Rochester) with coursework in Pricing Policies, Pricing Analytics, and Consumer Behavior; 4 Anthropic AI certifications; Advanced Pricing certification. Open to remote with East Coast working hours.

Looking forward to talking through the launch roadmap and the field enablement playbook.
