Hiring Team, SyntheticFi

The Head of Growth and Content seat at SyntheticFi sits at the intersection of multi-channel TOFU and content production for an RIA channel, with 20%+ MoM growth already on the board and a legacy-bank-dominated $1T industry to reframe. The shape of that work - first growth hire, owns the playbook, builds the engine - is the shape of the last four years of my operating notes, so I am writing.

On multi-channel TOFU at portfolio scale, Pixis is the closest analog. I ran an 8-client B2B SaaS and D2C portfolio at $1.4M aggregate annual media book, per-client monthly budgets between $15K and $90K, across Meta, LinkedIn, Google, Criteo retail-media, Amazon, and programmatic. On one D2C beauty client, a holdout-incrementality slice exposed two channels getting credit they had not earned; we reallocated spend on true lift and the brand cleared 3x ROAS the next month. On two other clients I replaced underperforming channels mid-quarter when blended numbers were hiding the truth. The data-driven and highly iterative line in the JD is the muscle, not the slogan.

On the systems + processes + feedback loops with Sales and CX, Plug Power is the proof. I rebuilt the MarTech function from zero on Salesforce, Adobe Analytics, GA4, and GTM, with Adobe Audience Manager behavioral segments, lead-routing rules, and SLA documentation feeding BDR and AE alerting. UTM spec written from scratch. CPA fell 25%, conversion rose 20%, and the loop from ad click to Sales-Qualified Lead got traced and proven end-to-end. The kind of measurement spine the first growth hire builds before debating channel mix.

On content-led growth for partner-channel audiences, Sensata is the case. I led cross-border GTM for new sensing product lines across NA and EU, ran 30+ interviews with OEMs and distributors, and built sales enablement (battlecards, case studies, decks, channel-partner microsites) for 50+ reps that drove a 30% lift in win rates, +35% qualified leads, and $2M+ in first-year pipeline. The translation muscle that takes a complex technical product and turns it into language an RIA cohort would forward to a partner is what made those launches land.

On AI and automation inside the growth program, I trained 8 enterprise marketers at Pixis on the platform's AI bidding and creative-automation tools - the category Smartly, Hunch, and Omneky compete in - and have shipped two production AI products solo: SwipeHire (a two-sided AI matching marketplace on Python + OpenAI API + React, 50+ users, +25% activation, 8 A/B tests with significance gates pre-committed) and an NSE Paper-Trading Bot on Python + Claude API over live equities data and agentic reasoning. Four Anthropic Claude certifications, Cursor + Claude as daily workflow. AI as force-multiplier on growth velocity, not substitute for taste.

San Francisco works, fully remote works. Resume and a 6-slide pitch deck attached; the full proof-point trail is on my Portfolio. Looking forward to the conversation.
