Hiring Team, Trade Coffee

The Growth Marketing Manager JD asks for two things that almost never sit in the same person: deep DTC paid-media chops across Meta, Google, YouTube, and TikTok, AND a working understanding of how AEO and generative-AI search are reshaping organic visibility. I have both, with shipped work behind each, and the convergence is rare enough that I made the effort to write before applying.

On the DTC paid side, Pixis is the closest analog. I managed an 8-client D2C portfolio with a $1.4M aggregate annual media book across six paid channels - Google, Meta, LinkedIn, Criteo retail-media, Amazon Ads, and programmatic. Per-client monthly budgets ranged $15K to $90K. The work I would point to for this role is the attribution restructure I led for a leading beauty brand: holdout-incrementality slices exposed two over-credited channels, I reallocated spend on true lift, and the brand cleared 3x ROAS the next month. That's the muscle Trade's CTR/CAC/ROAS roadmap will need every week.

On the AEO side, Plug Power is the proof. I shipped a full AEO + GEO program on top of a technical SEO rebuild: schema markup, content-cluster mapping, and FAQ pages structured specifically for ChatGPT, Claude, and Perplexity citation. I also authored a 2-page enterprise AI-Search audit teardown for an external partner that's available on request. Most growth marketers can describe AEO in conversation. Few have actually shipped the schema-and-FAQ work.

On the DTC e-commerce stack: GenY 16x ROAS work was rebuilding Google Merchant Center and Meta catalog feeds on Shopify, with weekly Shopping + Advantage+ creative-test cadence. SwipeHire is my own AI product, built solo on Python + OpenAI API + React, with GA4 + GTM + Amplitude wired day one and eight A/B tests on activation lifting +25%. Entrepreneurial mindset is not a phrase; it's the actual track record.

Four Anthropic Claude certifications and Cursor as my daily workflow round out the AI fluency the JD calls out around generative-AI platforms.

Attaching my resume and a short pitch deck mapping these proofs to the JD line-by-line, including three specific 30-day experiments I'd run on Trade's growth motion. Full portfolio is at adhi-growth-ai.vercel.app/ref/trade-coffee.

NYC works; open to relocating from Boston. Looking forward to a conversation.
