PITCH DECK | NUDGE FOUNDER'S OFFICE (GROWTH & STRATEGY)

When AI agents run the marketing, trust is the product. The fastest way to sell it is proof a business owner can check in thirty seconds.

A trust, content and sales-enablement framework built for an AI-led marketing team, plus the track record of running every one of those pieces myself.

- 50+ reps armed with sales enablement that lifted win rates 30% at Sensata
- 50% churn cut at Pixis via vertical playbooks built around each business owner
- PriceKeel founder, building the trust and audit layer buyers sign on
- 16x ROAS content and feed rebuild for D2C brands at GenY Medium
- 8 client accounts run personally on $15K-$90K/month media budgets at Pixis

WHY THIS DECK EXISTS

Nudge sells a promise most small business owners have been burned on before: let software run your marketing. Closing that gap is the actual job.

What closing it actually requires

A brand and trust story that holds up the moment a skeptical owner checks it, not just a claim on a landing page.

Content and partnerships that put Nudge in front of the right owners, built on real proof instead of generic calendar filler.

Sales enablement that tells the team what actually wins a deal with a gym owner or a lawyer, and what loses it.

What I have already run, at that exact layer

Built the sales enablement and case studies 50+ reps used to win more at Sensata, a 30-point win-rate lift.

Cut client churn 50% at Pixis running 8 accounts myself on $15K-$90K/month budgets, each one a real business owner relationship.

Founded PriceKeel, where the whole pitch is an audit trail Finance can trust before they sign, the same proof problem Nudge sells against.

> The through-line: every role I have held is some version of "prove this is worth trusting," to a distributor, a rep, a client, or a buyer. That is the job description underneath this one.

THE REQ, MAPPED

What the Founder's Office opening asks for, and where the proof already sits.

What the role covers

> "Brand and trust. Make Nudge the name business owners trust, wherever they come across us."

> "Content and partnerships. Build the content, media and partnerships that put Nudge in front of the right owners."

> "Sales enablement. Learn what wins and loses deals, and build the insights, tools and proof that help us win more."

> "You get work done through others. Freelancers, agencies and AI tools are how one person ships the work of five."

My proof

Brand and trust: built the audit trail and guardrail engine at PriceKeel that gives a buyer evidence before they sign, the exact mechanism trust is built on.

Content and partnerships: rebuilt feeds and creative for D2C brands at GenY Medium (16x ROAS) and ran retail-media partnerships across an 8-client, $15K-$90K/month portfolio at Pixis.

Sales enablement: shipped the decks and case studies 50+ Sensata reps used to win more, a 30% lift in win rates.

Getting work done through tools: automate recurring analysis at Applied Materials with AI agents built on Claude, and run PriceKeel solo on that same leverage.

THE PROOF, IN DEPTH

A 3-layer trust scorecard for an AI-run marketing team, built from what already works.

A starting framework for the brand-and-trust mandate, not a biography: three checks a skeptical owner (or a skeptical Nudge prospect) actually runs before they believe the pitch.

Consistency check

Does Nudge look and sound the same on the channel where an owner first finds it and the one where they verify it. Any mismatch between the two is where trust leaks.

Built before: owned positioning and messaging at Sensata so technical claims matched what a buyer actually saw, lifting conversion 15%.

LAYER 2

Proof library

A living set of real-owner case studies and results, organized by business type, that content and partnerships can pull from instead of writing a new claim each time.

Built before: kept enterprise case studies and sales materials current at Pixis, supporting a 20% lift in sales performance.

LAYER 3

Deal-level evidence

The specific proof point a rep or the founder reaches for in the exact moment an owner hesitates, tied back to what actually won or lost the last ten deals.

Built before: shipped the sales-enablement decks 50+ Sensata reps used to close more, a 30% win-rate lift.

Same instinct as PriceKeel: build the audit trail first, so trust does not have to be re-earned in every single conversation.

FIRST 30 DAYS

What the first month inside Nudge's Founder's Office would look like.

WEEK 1

Audit the trust gap

Sit with the founder, sales and whatever content exists today to find exactly where a prospect's trust breaks down, the same audit that grounded the Bleeders and Leakers margin program before a dashboard existed.

Why first: a brand-and-trust push built on assumptions instead of the real objection is the fastest way to miss the mark.

WEEK 2-3

Ship the first proof asset

Turn one real customer result into a case study or partnership asset content and sales can use immediately, the same move that turned scattered Pixis account data into retention playbooks.

Why now: one proof point a rep can actually use beats a week-one content calendar.

WEEK 4

Turn it into a cadence

Set the recurring rhythm, a proof-library update, a partnership pipeline review, or a win-loss debrief, that keeps producing trust signal without rebuilding it from scratch every cycle.

Why this fast: a cadence only earns the founder's trust once it has already moved one real deal.

CLOSE

Nudge is selling trust at scale. I have spent five years building the proof that earns it, one account and one deal at a time.

The core proof is Sensata and Pixis together: sales enablement that lifted win rates 30% for 50+ reps, and 50% lower churn across 8 client accounts run personally on $15K-$90K/month budgets, each one a real business owner relationship.

What is harder to find is someone who has also founded a company whose entire pitch is an audit trail a skeptical buyer can check, the same trust problem Nudge solves for small business owners every day. That is what a Founder's Office focused on brand, content and sales enablement needs most.
