Hiring Team, Thrive Market

Your posting asks for someone who owns Search and Shopping past the account itself, all the way into product feeds and the landing experience. At GenY Medium I rebuilt Google Merchant Center and Meta catalog feeds for D2C brands and took one of them to 16x ROAS, not by raising bids but by fixing feed taxonomy and coverage so the right products actually got served. That is the same feed-quality lever your posting names for Shopping surfaces, and it is where I have actually spent my time, not just where I report from.

At Plug Power I ran Paid Search and Paid Social across Google Ads and Microsoft Advertising on $100K/month budgets, cutting CPA 25% through bid optimization and structured A/B testing, and cutting cost per lead 50% by fixing the lead flow between WordPress and Pardot. That is the same tradeoff your posting describes between scaling investment and protecting acquisition efficiency, run on both the search side and the feed side, not just one.

Your posting is honest that GEO does not need an expert on day one, just someone curious enough to help build the test-and-learn roadmap. I already run that habit at Applied Materials, where I automate recurring analysis with AI agents built on Claude instead of doing it by hand every cycle. Turning that same build, test and measure instinct toward how people find Thrive Market as discovery shifts from search boxes to AI answers is the part of this role I would want to own first.

Membership commerce runs on customer intuition, not channel mechanics: what a shopper needs to believe before they trust a new grocery brand enough to pay for access to it. I ran full-funnel restructuring at Pixis (shopping feed cleanup, smart bidding, creative refresh, lookalike expansion) that delivered 3x ROAS in one month for a fashion client, and cut client churn 50% by reading what kept members around after the first purchase, not just what got them to click.
