Hiring Team, Backroads

At Pixis I hired and managed an 8-person team running paid media for 8 D2C and e-commerce client accounts, then used account strategy and channel diversification to cut client churn 50%. That combination, owning a small team and owning the retention number it gets judged on, is close to what Backroads is building across the guest journey, from the first inquiry through repeat travel and advocacy.

The CRM and segmentation side is just as direct. At Plug Power I automated the WordPress and Pardot lead flow into a nurture sequence, which cut cost per lead 50%, and at Sensata I built KPI frameworks in SQL and GA4 across 50K+ connected devices to find the cohorts worth nurturing rather than treating the list as one audience. That is the same instinct a roadmap across nurture, loyalty and personalization needs: segment first, or a loyalty program is just a newsletter with a name.

I am currently Strategic Marketing III at Applied Materials, where I automate repetitive forecasting and reporting with Claude agents and carry revenue targets for the role. I would bring that same operating discipline to the lifecycle team at Backroads: running the strategy, the segmentation and the team, and leaving the copy to Creative and Brand where it belongs.
