Adhithya Rokhith Bhaskar

San Francisco Bay Area, CA | arokhith@gmail.com | +1-929-563-9974

November 3, 2026

Hiring Team, Openprise

Your posting asks for someone who can turn platform capabilities into a differentiated narrative for technical, operational buyers, then arm sales with the materials to close it. That is the exact arc I ran at Sensata: I owned the go-to-market plan end to end, positioning through launch, for new sensing products across North America and Europe, and it drove $2M+ in first-year revenue.

Equipping sales was not a side task there, it was the job. I built the training, decks and case studies that 50+ reps used on live launches, moving win rates 30%, and tracked competitor moves across EMEA and the US so the narrative stayed current instead of going stale by the next quarter. At Pixis, I kept enterprise case studies and reference materials current with Customer Success input, the same loop your posting draws between product marketing and customer success.

Buyer insight came from direct contact, not a dashboard: 30+ structured interviews with OEMs and distributors before launch, which raised CSAT 22% once the fixes shipped. I also run the RevOps and data side of this work myself, CRM and CPQ ownership across Salesforce, HubSpot and Pardot, plus SQL and GA4 KPI frameworks, which lines up with the RevOps and data-analytics background your posting calls out as a plus.

At Applied Materials today I automate my own recurring competitive analysis with AI agents built on Claude instead of rebuilding the same report every cycle, time I would rather put into Openprise's next launch. Proof trail at adhi-product-ai.vercel.app/ref/openprise.

Adhithya Rokhith Bhaskar