Hiring Team, Clari

Your posting wants someone who can sit on a deal review call and actually move the deal, not just log it. At Sensata I ran the Bleeders and Leakers deal-governance program, 1,200 pricing opportunities against a $627M target across 3 regions, 4 product families and 20 product lines, and surfaced $433M in margin gaps for leadership to act on. I closed $700K of that in two quarters and raised distributor margins from 53% to 61%, the kind of deal structuring and discount decision your Deal Desk team makes every week.

That work never stopped at the quote. I negotiated multimillion-dollar customer quotes and the legal terms underneath them directly with senior executives and customers, the same customer-facing negotiation your posting flags for nonstandard deals. I kept continuity across quotes, revenue models and contracts through AP26 site-transition pricing, and I trained the sales reps who had to sell what I priced, building the sales enablement and quoting guidance that made the pricing stick in the field.

I run that same discipline now as founder of PriceKeel, a tool that reads a live discount exception inside the deal platform and recommends the pricing move, learned from a company's own closed-won and closed-lost deals, with an audit trail Finance can review. It is CRM, CPQ, quote and order-form continuity, and deal approvals, built from the operator's seat rather than the systems-administration seat, which is exactly the distinction a deal desk manager has to hold. I also build my own Claude-based agents to pull the manual steps out of recurring pricing analysis.

Clari's own product is a revenue platform, so your Deal Desk team is pricing and governing deals on the same quote-to-cash motion you sell to customers, which is the kind of problem I want to spend my next role on. The fuller build trail, including the Bleeders and Leakers dashboard and the PriceKeel guardrail engine, is at adhi-pricing-ai.vercel.app/ref/clari.
