Hiring Team, Thrive Market

Your posting asks for a structured creative-testing framework that turns into repeatable performance gains across Meta, not just someone to run the account. At Pixis I rebuilt a fashion client's full-funnel paid social program (shopping feed cleanup, smart bidding, creative refresh, lookalike expansion) and took it to 3x ROAS in a single month. That is the exact test-to-playbook motion your posting describes across audiences, creative and bidding, and it is work I actually ran, not just reported on.

At Plug Power I owned Paid Search and Paid Social across Meta, LinkedIn, Google Ads and Microsoft Advertising on $100K/month budgets spanning multiple business units, cutting CPA 25% through bid-strategy optimization and 15+ structured A/B tests. Scaling spend while protecting acquisition efficiency is the tradeoff your posting names directly, and it is the one I have had to defend in front of a leadership team before, not just in a spreadsheet.

Membership commerce runs on trust before the first renewal: a shopper has to believe a brand before they pay to keep shopping it. At GenY Medium I rebuilt Google Merchant Center and Meta catalog feeds for D2C brands and took one to 16x ROAS, pairing feed-quality fixes with the same audience and creative testing a paid social acquisition engine needs to turn a first purchase into a member who stays.

I hired and managed an 8-person team at Pixis running 8 clients with full P&L ownership, and cut client churn 50% by reading what kept people around after the first purchase instead of just what got them to click, the same growth-to-retention instinct a membership model depends on.
