Adhithya Rokhith Bhaskar

San Francisco Bay Area, CA | arokhith@gmail.com | +1-929-563-9974

October 27, 2026

Hiring Team, Xoxoday

Your posting describes a seat that sits at the center of a function, translating leadership priorities into execution plans with owners and timelines, and surfacing blockers before a review needs them explained. That is the role I have been running for myself at PriceKeel: strategy, GTM and the reviews that make it visible, without a team to hand the pieces to.

I have also run that seat inside a large company. At Sensata I owned end-to-end GTM for a new sensing product line across North America and Europe, generating $2M+ in first-year revenue, and the coordination that took, aligning positioning, pricing, channel and launch timing across Marketing, Sales and Product, is the same cross-functional alignment your req describes between marketing, sales and revenue. I built the KPI frameworks in SQL and GA4 that gave leadership funnel visibility, the dashboard-and-reporting half of this seat's rhythm-of-business work.

The planning cadence is familiar too. I run OKRs with weekly and quarterly business reviews at every stop, from Applied Materials today back through Sensata and Plug Power, and I have hired and managed teams at Pixis and Plug Power, so I know what a quarterly planning cycle needs from the person running it, not just attending it.

I would like to bring that operating discipline to Xoxoday's Marketing and Growth function. Proof trail at adhithyabhaskar.vercel.app/ref/xoxoday.

Adhithya Rokhith Bhaskar