PITCH DECK | PLAID PRODUCT MARKETING MANAGER, ONBOARDING

Connecting a bank account is the trust moment in Plaid's funnel, and whether it converts gets decided in the first session, not weeks later. Onboarding narrative, instrumentation and cross-functional handoff are a GTM problem, and I already run that loop end to end.

A narrative-and-funnel discipline built and measured before: a 25% activation lift on a live product's onboarding flow, a $2M+ GTM launch owned start to finish, and 30+ customer interviews that moved a roadmap, not a deck.

- +25% Activation - SwipeHire onboarding funnel, 8+ A/B tests, 12+ interviews
- $2M+ GTM - Sensata sensing-product launch owned end to end
- 30+ PMF Interviews - OEM/distributor voice-of-customer fed straight into the roadmap
- +30% Win Rate - sales enablement built for 50+ reps
- Claude AI Agents - automating repetitive analysis today

WHY THIS DECK EXISTS

Quarterbacking Plaid's onboarding strategy means one narrative has to hold across Product, Sales, Enablement and Growth at once. That is a narrative-plus-instrumentation discipline, not a copywriting task.

What the mandate actually requires

One onboarding narrative that holds across every team touching it, not five different pitches depending on who is in the room.

A funnel instrumented well enough that a drop-off reads as a data point to act on, not a guess to argue about.

Product-market fit validated through direct customer interviews, with findings that change the roadmap, not just the messaging.

What I have already built at that layer

Owned the onboarding GTM and analytics stack for an AI product zero-to-one (GA4, GTM, event tracking, funnel dashboards), running 8+ A/B tests and 12+ interviews to lift activation 25%.

Ran 30+ OEM and distributor interviews at Sensata that reshaped the roadmap directly, raising CSAT 22%, not just the pitch deck.

Built the sales enablement and case studies that turned a $2M+ Sensata launch's positioning into one story 50+ reps could sell from, lifting win rates 30%.

> The through-line: the onboarding quarterback role is a narrative-plus-instrumentation discipline I have already run twice, once on a product I built myself and once on a launch with a sales team depending on the story.

THE MANDATE, MAPPED

What the role covers, and where the proof already sits.

What the role covers

> Act as the quarterback for Plaid's onboarding strategy, building a clear, compelling onboarding narrative and GTM strategy.

> Partner with Product to shape product-market fit and bring the voice of the customer into product strategy.

> Partner across Sales, Enablement, Growth and Marketing to translate strategy into GTM programs.

My proof

SwipeHire onboarding: owned the narrative, funnel instrumentation and testing that lifted activation 25%.

Sensata PMF: 30+ OEM and distributor interviews fed directly into roadmap priorities, raising CSAT 22%.

Sensata enablement: decks and case studies for 50+ reps that lifted win rates 30%.

THE CLOSED-LOOP PROOF, IN DEPTH

SwipeHire: an onboarding funnel built from PRD to activation metric, not handed a finished spec.

Built as an AI job-matching platform with a live OpenAI API integration behind it, the same build-narrative-measure loop an onboarding owner runs on a financial-data product.

50+ Users

Onboarded Through a Funnel I Built

Wrote the PRD, scoped the MVP and shipped the onboarding flow and eligibility-aware matching behind it.

+25% Activation

From 8+ A/B Tests, 12+ Interviews

Ran GA4 and GTM funnel dashboards to find and fix the drop-off points new users hit first.

3 Pricing Tiers

Packaging Modeled From Competitor Teardowns

Defined the ICP and the willingness-to-pay case behind each tier before writing a line of marketing copy.

The same discipline carries over from Sensata, where I owned a product launch to $2M+ in first-year revenue on a narrative Sales could actually use, and from Applied Materials, where I automate the repetitive side of market and competitive analysis with Claude AI agents today.

FIRST 30 DAYS

What the first month quarterbacking Plaid's onboarding strategy would look like.

WEEK 1

Map today's onboarding funnel end to end

Sit with Support, Sales and Data on exactly where users drop before writing a new narrative, the same funnel-first discipline that shaped SwipeHire's onboarding instrumentation.

Why first: a narrative built before the funnel data is a guess, not a plan.

WEEK 2-3

Pressure-test the narrative with customer interviews

Run direct product-market-fit interviews the way 30+ OEM and distributor conversations fed Sensata's roadmap, so the onboarding story reflects what customers actually hesitate on.

Why now: the loudest internal opinion about onboarding is rarely the customer's.

WEEK 4

Ship one GTM story every team can run from

Hand Sales, Enablement, Growth and Marketing one shared narrative plus the instrumentation to prove it is working, the same handoff that lifted Sensata's win rates 30%.

Why this fast: a narrative only Product believes in does not move activation.

CLOSE

Onboarding needs a quarterback who has already run the narrative-instrumentation-interview loop twice, not someone picking it up for the first time on Plaid's funnel. I have.

The core proof is SwipeHire: an onboarding narrative and funnel I owned zero-to-one, instrumented with GA4 and GTM, tested with 8+ A/B tests and 12+ user interviews, lifting activation 25%.

What is harder to find is someone who has also run that loop on a live revenue line: 30+ OEM and distributor interviews that reshaped a Sensata roadmap directly, a $2M+ GTM launch owned end to end, and sales enablement that lifted win rates 30% once Sales and Marketing had one shared story. I bring the same loop to Plaid's onboarding funnel, and I keep building with AI tools today, automating repetitive analysis with Claude agents at Applied Materials.
