Hiring Team, Modal

Your posting asks one person to own revenue operations end to end, lead routing through deal close and commission administration, and to have built that GTM infrastructure before rather than inherited it. I built it before. As founder of PriceKeel, I set up the company's CRM architecture, CPQ configuration and deal approvals from a blank slate, then ran the forecast and pipeline reviews on top of it, so the lead-to-close system this role owns is one I have already built, not one I would be learning on the job.

Before that I ran the reporting and deal-desk half of the same loop at scale. Leading Sensata's Bleeders and Leakers program, I built the FY2026 Power BI dashboard that tracked 1,200 opportunities against a $627M target across 3 regions and 20 product lines, with pipeline funnel, win rate, avg $/win and stage distribution surfaced by salesperson, the dashboard and leaderboard layer your posting calls out. Running deal desk on that same pipeline, I reviewed deals at the pricing and negotiation stage against competitive gaps and each customer's own willingness to pay, recovering $700K plus in margin in two quarters and raising distributor and channel-partner margins from 53% to 61% by repricing the channel logic region by region, the territory-strategy muscle behind that number.

Earlier, at Plug Power, I automated the WordPress and Pardot lead flow and cut cost per lead 50%, then automated the Mar-Tech stack (Salesforce, Adobe Analytics, GA, Google Tag Manager) for closed-loop reporting, the same CRM hygiene and lifecycle discipline your posting names as deep proficiency requirements. Modal's usage-based, high-growth motion is exactly the kind of system where dirty CRM data or a routing gap compounds fast, and I would rather have already broken and fixed that system once, at PriceKeel, than be discovering it for the first time on Modal's pipeline.

Right now, as Strategic Marketing III at Applied Materials, I automate repetitive forecasting and analysis work with Claude AI agents while carrying P&L and revenue targets, the tool-evaluation instinct your posting asks for. Proof trail at adhithyabhaskar.vercel.app/ref/modal.
