Hiring Team, Parspec

Your posting says you want someone who knows their own CPL, MQL-to-SQL conversion and pipeline numbers without looking them up. At GenY Medium I lifted a B2B e-commerce startup's conversion rate 36% and revenue 25%, and at Plug Power I ran $100K/month paid search and social budgets across Google, Microsoft, Meta and LinkedIn to a 25% lower CPA. Those are the numbers I still know cold.

The "doer" half of this role is where I spend most of my time. At Plug Power I built and ran every paid campaign myself, no agency and no hand-off, testing audiences, creative and offers across 15 plus A/B tests, then automated the WordPress and Pardot lead flow myself, not briefed to someone else, to cut cost per lead 50%. That instinct to own the stack rather than manage whoever owns it is what a HubSpot system of record needs from the person running it day to day.

The enterprise ABM side of this seat maps to a project I ran outside Sensata: narrowing 170 target facilities down to a serviceable market of 28 and building personas across four buying-committee types for a B2B industrial sale. At Sensata itself I priced through that same distributor-and-rep-agency channel structure, raising distributor margins from 53% to 61%, so I already know the shape of the buying committees you are asking me to sequence touchpoints against.

I use Claude AI agents daily to automate my own reporting at Applied Materials, the same bias toward shipping fast and testing constantly that an AI-native platform asks of the person running its demand engine. Proof trail at adhi-growth-ai.vercel.app/ref/parspec.
