Hiring Team, PagerDuty

Your posting asks for someone who can triage the Deal Desk queue and resolve pricing issues before they stall a deal, and that is the work behind the $700K+ in margin I recovered in 2 quarters at Sensata leading the Bleeders and Leakers program: deal by deal negotiations built on competitive gaps and customer willingness to pay, closed fast enough that Sales never lost the deal in the meantime.

I also rebuilt channel pricing from the ground up, raising distributor and channel-partner margins from 53% to 61% by repricing parts sold through distribution, the same manual order-form and deal-guidance work a Deal Desk runs through CPQ every day. Today I sit on the other side of that process too: as founder of PriceKeel, I built an explainable discount guardrail engine and the audit trail Finance reviews before a deal ships, so I understand both how a desk approves an exception and what makes that approval hold up later.

A Deal Desk seat lives at the intersection of Sales, Finance and IT, and that is where most of my work has sat. I partnered with senior executives at Sensata on AP26 revenue models and site-transition strategies, trained partners on best-practice CPQ workflows, and now automate recurring analysis with Claude-built AI agents as Strategic Marketing III at Applied Materials so the numbers are ready before someone has to ask for them.

I would welcome the chance to talk through how that deal-level pricing and CPQ background maps to your Lead-to-Cash flow. Proof trail at adhi-pricing-ai.vercel.app/ref/pagerduty.
