Adhithya Rokhith Bhaskar

San Francisco Bay Area, CA | arokhith@gmail.com | +1-929-563-9974

October 29, 2026

Hiring Team, Cursor

At Plug Power I owned $100K/month paid budgets across Google, Meta and LinkedIn, and cut CPA 25% through bid optimization and A/B testing. That is close to the job your posting describes: own paid acquisition end to end, from campaign build-out to attribution, across a channel mix that spans Google Ads, LinkedIn, Meta, Reddit and YouTube plus developer-focused platforms.

My view on performance marketing for a technical audience is that the creative and the landing page carry more of the result than the bid strategy, because a developer clicks past anything generic in under a second. At Pixis I ran an 8-client, $15K-$90K/month portfolio that included retail media (Amazon Ads, Criteo) and iOS app paid UA (Appsflyer, Adjust), and the campaigns that actually moved ROAS were the ones where we rebuilt the creative and the funnel before we touched the bid. I would run that same order of operations on Cursor's acquisition program: funnel and creative first, budget and bidding second.

I also sit on the other side of the shift Cursor is selling into. At Applied Materials I automate recurring forecasting and reporting work with agents built on Claude, so the workflow your own users live in is one I already run daily, not one I would be learning on the job.

I would like to put that budget discipline and funnel read to work on Cursor's acquisition program. Proof trail at adhi-growth-ai.vercel.app/ref/cursor.

Adhithya Rokhith Bhaskar