Adhithya Rokhith Bhaskar

San Francisco Bay Area, CA | arokhith@gmail.com | +1-929-563-9974

November 12, 2026

Hiring Team, Tekion Corp

Your posting describes Deal Desk as the control point between Sales, Finance and Legal: say yes fast on standard deals, find a workable structure on complex ones, protect compliance. I built that exact control point myself at PriceKeel, setting up the CRM, CPQ and deal-approval process from scratch, with an audit trail Finance can trust before any exception reaches approval.

The discount-governance half is where Sensata's Bleeders and Leakers program fits directly. I reviewed and enforced pricing policy on live deals across a multi-$100M business, closing $700K+ of surfaced margin in two quarters by evaluating non-standard requests against willingness to pay and recommending structures that worked for both sides. I raised distributor margins from 53% to 61% by fixing the pricing and approval logic itself, not issuing one-time overrides, and I shaped multimillion-dollar customer quotes with senior executives in a way that stayed defensible under revenue-recognition review.

Coaching the field on structure requirements is a habit, not new territory. I built sales enablement that lifted win rates 30% by fixing what reps needed at each deal stage, and I document pricing guidelines and approval playbooks as a matter of course, not an afterthought.

I would welcome the chance to talk through how I would approach the first quarter of Tekion's Deal Desk queue. Proof trail at adhi-pricing-ai.vercel.app/ref/tekion-corp.

Adhithya Rokhith Bhaskar