Adhithya Rokhith Bhaskar

San Francisco Bay Area, CA | arokhith@gmail.com | +1-929-563-9974

November 1, 2026

Hiring Team, Rippling

Your posting asks for someone who can own a demand gen campaign from concept to analysis, then shift resources to whatever is actually moving the needle. At Plug Power I ran $100K/month paid budgets across business units and automated the WordPress and Pardot lead-nurture flow, which cut cost per lead 50% while bid optimization and A/B testing across Google, Microsoft, Meta and LinkedIn brought CPA down 25%. That is the crawl-walk-run loop your team runs every week, not a one-time project.

The cross-functional half of this role is just as familiar. At Sensata I wrote the copy and managed targeting for email and paid-channel campaigns that generated +35% qualified leads, then built the sales enablement that lifted win rates 30% for 50+ reps, so I know what a lead has to look like by the time it reaches a rep's desk. I also built KPI frameworks in SQL and GA4 across 50K+ connected devices to find the behavioral triggers worth nurturing, the same firmographic-and-behavioral-trigger mapping your job description calls out.

At Pixis I managed 8 client accounts and media budgets from $15K to $90K a month each, which meant testing fast across non-English markets, retail media and iOS app UA (Appsflyer, Adjust) and cutting what was not working, not waiting for a quarterly review to say so. Rippling's demand gen motion scales across far more channels than any one of those accounts did, but the discipline of killing a losing test early and doubling into a winning one is the same.

I would bring someone who has already run the full loop: write the copy, launch the campaign, read the data, and act on it the same week. Proof trail at adhi-growth.vercel.app/ref/rippling.

Adhithya Rokhith Bhaskar