Hiring Team, Rillet

At PriceKeel I am the primary Salesforce administrator and CPQ owner, which is the first line of your posting: GTM forecasting, reporting and operational planning built with Sales and Finance, not handed off to them. I run the forecast and pipeline reviews, configure the deal-approval logic, and keep the audit trail Finance queries directly, so the "own it end to end" framing in this req describes work I already do daily, not a stretch assignment.

The commissions, territory and lead-routing programs you are scaling have a direct analog in what I built at PriceKeel: a guardrail engine that turns closed-won and closed-lost deal data into an explainable discount rule, the same rule-based logic a commissions or territory model runs on. Before that, I built Sensata's FY2026 Bleeders and Leakers Power BI dashboard, tracking 1,200 pipeline opportunities against a $627M target across 3 regions and 20 product lines, broken out by salesperson and stage, and used that visibility to recover $700K in margin in two quarters. That is the pipeline-management and revenue-performance analysis this seat is built around.

Cross-functional partnership is where this work actually lands. At Plug Power I synced Salesforce, Adobe Analytics, GA and Google Tag Manager into one closed-loop reporting layer and built an automated lead-routing flow that cut cost per lead 50%, standing between marketing, sales and finance so the same number meant the same thing to all three. At Sensata I also built the sales enablement materials that lifted rep win rates 30%, the kind of training resource this role calls for across the GTM org.

Rillet calling itself the agentic ERP for modern finance teams is not a throwaway line to me either: at Applied Materials I automate repetitive revenue analysis with AI agents built on Claude instead of waiting on an engineering queue, so I would bring that same build-first habit to how your GTM systems get maintained. I would welcome the chance to talk through how this maps to the role. Proof trail at adhithyabhaskar.vercel.app/ref/rillet.
