Hiring Team, Juicebox

Your posting puts pricing and packaging strategy at the top of the list of high-priority projects for this hire, and that is the exact shape of work I already run. At Sensata I built the FY2026 Bleeders and Leakers Power BI dashboard from scratch: 1,200 pricing opportunities ranked against a $627M target across 3 regions and 20 product lines, with its own win-rate and stage-distribution view. That dashboard surfaced $433M in margin gaps, and the program behind it recovered $700K+ in margin in two quarters by repricing the lines it flagged. The lever there was pricing, not recruiting software, but the sequence, define the metric, size the opportunity, build the model, get leadership to act on it, is the one your packaging and monetization work asks for.

The posting also wants someone who can move across Sales, Marketing, Customer Success, Partnerships and Product without losing momentum. At Applied Materials I partner directly with Sales, Engineering and Accounts to turn scattered field input into one market view instead of five competing ones. At Sensata I owned GTM strategy for a new product line across North America and Europe end to end, positioning through launch, which drove $2M+ in first-year revenue, and built the sales enablement that lifted win rates 30% for 50+ reps. That is the generalist range a first GTM Strategy and Operations hire needs when the org has not yet built a playbook to hand them.

AI-native workflows are not new territory for me either. I automate recurring GTM analysis with AI agents built on Claude at Applied Materials, and before that I built an AI job-matching platform myself, start to finish in Python and the OpenAI API, including the pricing tiers and the GTM analytics stack behind it. Given how much of Juicebox's own product is AI doing work a recruiter used to do by hand, I'd rather bring a candidate who has already built that kind of tool than one who is reading about it for the first time in this role.

Juicebox is on a path to $100M ARR with room to still be writing the GTM playbook instead of maintaining someone else's. I would like to be the one who writes the pricing and packaging chapter of it. Proof trail at adhithyabhaskar.vercel.app/ref/juicebox.
